

Schools™ Out, Summer™s Here!

Description

Viewpoint Art: The kids painted pictures that were used to create sets of beautiful notecards. Of course, my heart melted when I saw my son's notecard (pictured above).

My kids just completed their first year at Viewpoint School. And what a year it has been!

Both my kids started the school year excited but slightly apprehensive about a new school. They've finished this year happy, tired, confident, dazzled and inspired. They will be both spending time at the school this summer. My son will be at basketball camp and my daughter will be a Counselor In Training at Viewpoint's Roadrunner camp.

Viewpoint School welcomed our family in a way words cannot explain. The warmth, kindness and sense of community is real. It is a school where much is expected of the kids and much is given back to them. It is traditional, rigorous and competitive academically. The dress code is enforced. Good behavior is expected. Achievement to one's fullest potential is encouraged and expected. Along with those qualities, there is an ever-present nurturing quality about Viewpoint that my kids intuitively appreciate.

A happy Viewpoint mom!

Most of all, we are grateful for the kindest, most genuine welcome our family could have imagined. We have been embraced by the headmaster, the admissions director, the teachers and administrators. And the other parents too. This made our first year at the school a huge success. We look forward to many more years there. It's a good feeling.

Thank you, Viewpoint School. Thank you.
