Description

The Mansion

- The official cutoff is September 1, but parents are holding May kids back now.
- Where is your winter home?
- We donâ€™t have to vaccinate because everyone else does.
- We spend summers back east.
- I might have to fire the nannyâ€”she was late dropping off the kids again.
- You have to come to our holiday partyâ€”we hired FX company to make real snow!
- My driver got stuck in traffic.
- Why doesnâ€™t that child have a â€œshadow?â€”
- We never fly commercial.
- I was going to get a B, but everyone told me Iâ€™d be happier with a C.
- I had to wait all day for the interior decorator for my Malibu house.
- Do you realize how much I paid for this parking spot at the silent auction?
- Sheâ€™s writing our sonâ€™s recommendation letter, so for Christmas we gave her a week at our house in Aspen.

The Aspen House

- This is a feeder school for Harvard-Westlake.
- It was all nannies at that birthday party. Except for the hosts, I was the only mother there.
- Actually, 7000 sq. feet isn't really that big.
- Dr. X is an artist. I'm on the 6-month wait list to get my eyes done.
- Public school kids have a better chance at getting into the UCs.
- Do you know who her father is?

Part Two Coming Soon!

Lindsay J. Gallagher, a Gen X mother of two, is a transplant from New York City, who has lived in LA for 15 years. Married to a cinematographer, she is a "film widow," doing her best to create a "normal" family life for her son and daughter even though dad is often away. When she is not carting her children to baseball, swimming, ballet, acting or voice, or volunteering at their schools, she works on her novel, plays tennis, snowboards or watches Netflix on TV (new addiction!) She travels a lot with her kids, often on her own, and blogs for family travel website Poshbrood.com. Recently she switched from coffee to green tea and from wine to tequila. Lindsay has one child who attends an LAUSD elementary school and one who attends a private elementary school. Visit Lindsay's personal blog, iknowbutidontknow.
