

Guest Blogger Susanna: The Los Angeles Private School Mom's Alphabet (yes, it's snarky!)

Description

The Los Angeles Private School Mom's Alphabet (we're not totally exempt only for the most obnoxious stuff)

A is for ass-kissing for admissions

B is for buying your way in

C is for carb-free

D is for donations

E is for Einstein- every parent has one

F is for frenemies

G is for gardening- organic and by a professional gardener

H is for hidden costs

I is for injectables

J is for juicing

K is for karma- it's going to be a bitch

L is for luxury items needed for the auction

M is for middle school hysteria

N is for never ending donations

O is OMG. Enough with the drama already!

P is personal everything: trainer, chef, assistant

Q is for quack doctors to make you look younger

R is for running every committee

S is for social climbing

T is for two-faced- best watch your back outside of committee meetings!

U is for the underserved students we raise money for once a year

V is for vaccination controversies

W is for world travel on every vacation and long weekend

X is for the number raised with the annual fundraiser- no one knows the amount

Y is for yoga pants

Z is for the zen you achieve when you realize elementary school won't last forever.

Susanna Morgan's attend a Los Angeles private elementary school. Susanna's definitely not June Cleaver. A parenting non-expert and mom of two boys, she returned her pearls to her ex-husband's family as part of their divorce. And now she's reclaiming the life she wants. The pearls are off!

Category

1. Beyond The Brochure

Tags

1. Not June
2. private school moms
3. Private School Terms
4. Susanna Morgan

Date Created

December 2, 2013

Author
admin

default watermark